SALLY ROY

A SCOTTISH BALLAD.

Sung by Mr. Incledon

In his Entertainment called

THE WANDERING MELODIST.

The Words by

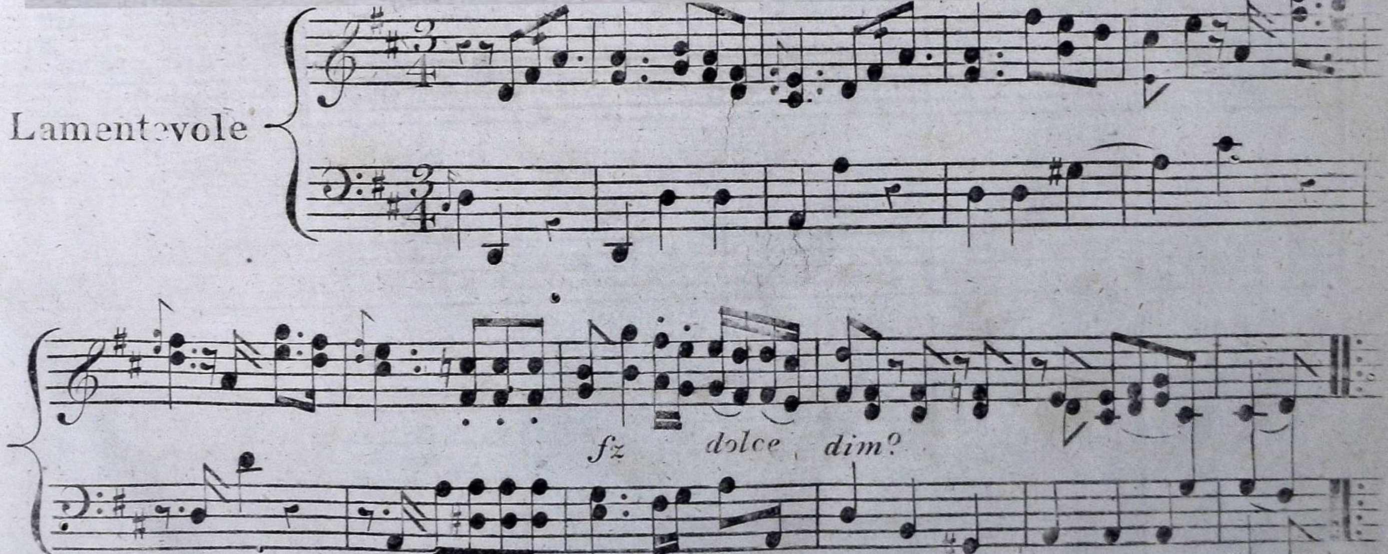
Mr. Rannie,

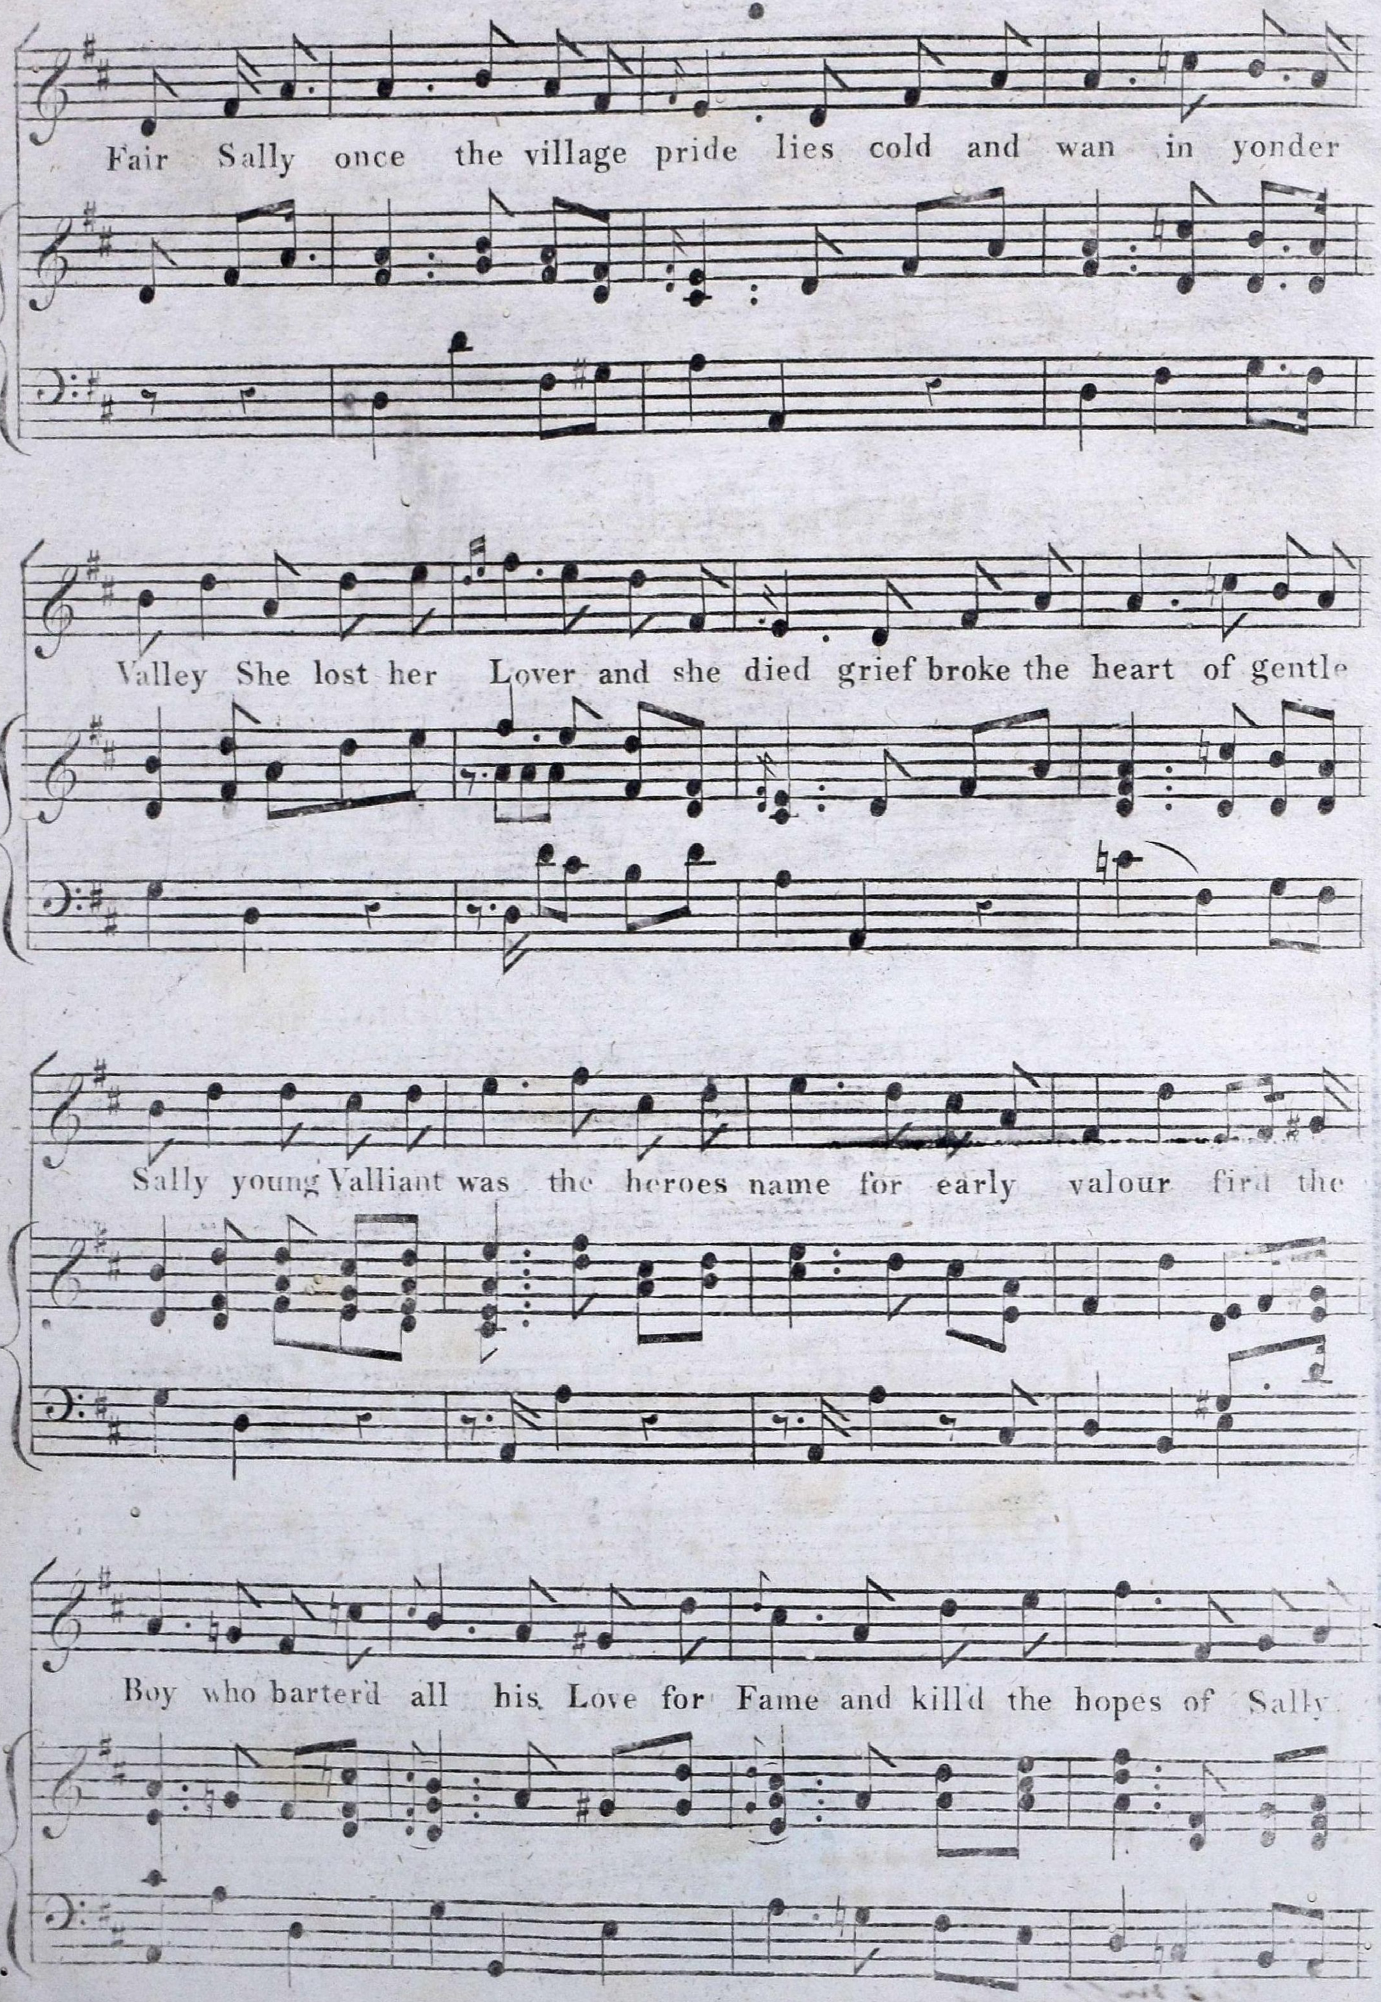
Composed by

Wm. Shield,

Musician in Ordinary to his Majesty.

Price 1s.





Fair Sally once the village pride lies cold and wan in yonder
Valley She lost her Lover and she died grief broke the heart of gentle
Sally young Valliant was the heroes name for early valour fir'd the Boy who barter'd all his Love for Fame and kill'd the hopes of Sally

N.B. the Air requires the last lines of the following Stanzas to be repeated with a fading tone

2

Swift from the Arms of weeping Love,
As rag'd the War in yonder Valley
He rush'd his martial pow'r to prove,
While faint with fear sunk lovely Sally
At noon–she saw the youth depart
At Eve–she lost her darling Joy
E're night–the last throb of her heart
Declar'd the fate of Sally Roy.

3

The Virgin train in tears are seen
When yellow moonlight fills the Valley
Slow stealing o'er the dewy green
Towards the Grave of gentle Sally
And while remembrance wakes the sigh
Which weans each feeling heart from joy
The Mournful Dirge ascending high
Bewails the fate of Sally Roy.